National Park Service Signs Stolen From Capitol Square

RICHMOND, VA – The Division of Capitol Police is investigating the theft of two signs that were posted in Capitol Square as part of the 150th Anniversary of the Civil War. The signs, which displayed enlarged antique photo reproductions, were taken the morning of April 4th between 9:30 am and 10:00 am during the “Future of Richmond’s Past” event, which drew approximately 5,000 visitors to Capitol Square. The signs are the property of the National Park Service. The Capitol Police are looking for a suspect shown in the images below, a white male with a beard or goatee, wearing a gray hoodie and blue jeans. He was accompanied by a female and a dog.
